

The Blackbox Teens

The Black Box Teens is a community service group that offers teens an opportunity to make new friends while learning life skills.

In a nutshell, they produce shows to raise funds for their projects. They choose the show they want to work on... they direct it, they design it, they market it, they perform it. They also choose a project they want to focus on and they "fun" raise for it, they market it, they design it, they complete it from start to finish.

It is an amazing opportunity for teens to get a hands-on experience as they take on adult roles in their productions and projects with the help and guidance of adults and college theater majors.
